He was supposed to be a member of the Foxton Hall, which burned last winter when a cargo of chemicals exploded. One of the crew was lost and it was at first thought that Albert was the victim. However, subsequent inquiry revealed the fact that Albert had signed on the Foxton Hall and deserted the ship in Norfolk. Several confusing answers followed. Albert was on the Foxton Hall but was saved. Albert had not sailed with the vessel. He had been seen in the Bahamas. The greatest mystery clouds the case. Every clue has been proved wrong and we are still unable to discover exactly whether Albert did sail on the doomed vessel or whether he is leading the careless life under a tropical sun, forgetting to write home or deferring it through the laziness for which the tropics have always been to blame. Meantime his people are writing the consuls in every Central and South American port while the Institute has set every agency it controls at work to reach the boy if he is alive, or to learn how and where it happened, if he is dead. His Modest Wish Augustus had wandered uptown as far as Central Park, and it was there that he struck up an acquaintance with an obviously prosperous New Yorker. The seaman s pretty talent for spinning yarns eventually won him a sincere invitation to come and have dinner at one of Broadway...
