Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Elementary Lessons in the Principles of Agriculture: Specially Adapted to the Requirements of the New Code of 1882 The motto of the Royal Agricultural Society - Practice with Science must be the motto of every teacher of Agriculture. The teacher must introduce as many simple chemical experiments as possible. Small collections of rocks, soils, plants, etc., should be made - a task in which the children of a day-school will render most efficient aid. After the reading of each chapter, it should be illustrated, if possible, by references to the immediate neighbourhood. Young students dearly love practical work; and by inspecting the fields in walks along country lanes, the truths which form the leading facts of the science of Agriculture can be taught with a directness and vividness which will make the subsequent study of a text-book a very pleasant task.
