Probably the vicinity of this narrow entrance to the harbor was resorted to by fishermen long before the settlement of Boston; but it is certain that, from the very first, the pioneers of the infant settlement set a high value on the forest-crowned promontory of Pulling Point. Of all the wide territory which lay around the central peninsula of Boston, it was set apart as too precious to become the property of individual holders; and by an act of council, in 1632, it was - Ordered, That the necke of lande betwixt Powder Horne Hill and Pullen Poynte shalte belonge to Boston, to be enjoyed by ye inhabitants forever.
